

Niche Health supports GPs on their paperless journey

Our products release valuable practice time and space with intelligent solutions to long-standing problems.

- Intelligent GP Reporting - iGPR - revolutionises electronic third party reporting. Software, support, and remote training come at no cost to the practice.

iGPR

“Definitely easy to use and time saving... I’m impressed!”

- Dr Nick O’Donovan, GP
The Devonshire Practice,
Portsmouth

“This is an invaluable piece of software. It ticks all the Caldicott Guardian boxes.”

Tracie Craddock, Practice Manager, Stirchley Medical practice, Telford

iGPR enables secure and reliable transfer of information from a GP practice to authorised third parties such as insurers.

Integrating with the major clinical systems via Inchwre's Pocket or Patient Anywhere platform and installed in less than 30 minutes, iGPR automatically removes non-permitted medical information from the GP reports provided to third parties such as life insurance companies. This includes, for example, details of contraception, irrelevant negative test results and genetic testing information.

The GP reviews the information before securely and electronically sending it across to the enabled insurer using NHS-approved encryption methodologies. The GP is in complete control of the information leaves the practice.

GP users have seen the time spent producing each report drop from an average 73 minutes to 10 minutes, allowing doctors to spend their time more efficiently.

iGPR is available at no cost to the practice for software, installation, remote training and ongoing support. It can also be used for other third party reports, such as solicitor requests.

- noteSpace releases practice time and much needed space by delivering secure storage of medical records combined with innovative software that manages the flow of records.

noteSpace

“With many investments you have to wait a long time to see the benefit, but with noteSpace the benefit is realised straight away.”

- Neil Carter, Practice Manager
Cherrymead Surgery, Buckinghamshire.

noteSpace quickly releases space in GP premises with its combined service of transferring paper-based records to an NHS-approved facility, and using secure software to electronically manage the flow of records.

Designed with doctors and practice staff, noteSpace can drastically reduce administrative time spent on records management, and provide extra space. This enables practices to offer additional services or facilities.

The noteSpace service is managed entirely by Niche Health from beginning to end. No prior filing of records is necessary by the practice. Records are organised by Niche Health on site, and then taken to an NHS approved storage facility.

The practice can request prompt delivery of the paper records using the noteSpace software. Electronic copies of records can also be requested.

Case Study

noteSpace

A large inner city practice in Portsmouth was going to lose a large consultation room and was wasting huge amounts of time accessing records spread across two different sites.

The noteSpace team catalogued and boxed their records and transported them to a regional storage facility, releasing valuable space. The noteSpace software is now used in the practice to electronically manage the flow of records, including further collection, delivery back to the practice, and requesting scanned records for viewing.

An example of a record space waiting to be liberated by noteSpace.

By removing records to secure storage, space is released in surgeries for any number of new purposes.

Practice Manager, Denise Fenton was delighted with the results.

“It’s the best thing that has happened to the practice. We feel really organised and save at least one whole day of staff time each month, simply by not having to go and physically search for patient records.”

Who we are

Niche Health aims to increase practice efficiency by reducing time spent on administrative tasks and supporting GPs through their paperless journey.

iGPR drastically reduces third party data reporting times; noteSpace is releasing practice space across the UK.

What we do

Niche Health was inspired to create noteSpace in response to the mountain of paper inefficiencies facing GPs.

iGPR further demonstrates our commitment to enabling GPs to use technology to revolutionise third party reporting.
